Staci,

I would like to ensure that I am included as an interested party to the State of Alaska's Administrative Systems Replacement Project. I am sorry, but have been traveling and did not catch the requirement.

Thank you very much.

Hi, you are receiving this email because you have previously expressed interest in the State of Alaska's Administrative Systems Replacement Project. Yesterday you received notification of the State's RFP for the project. I have not received an email back from you to register with me as an interested party, and as such, if I don't receive confirmation from you that you want to register as an interested party, I will remove you from the distribution list and you will no longer receive updates. If you wish to register with me and continue to receive updates, please respond to this email by 5:00 pm, Alaska Time tomorrow, Thursday, August 5, 2010.

Hi Staci –

Yes, I am an interested party and Dell is interested this RFP.

Please keep me on the list.

I previously attended a Best Value Session in June.

Let me know if you require anything further from me?

The RFP strongly recommends that offerors attend in person, but yes, there will be a teleconference capability also. The RFP provides direction in Section 2.02 regarding the pre-proposal and as you can see, we have a limited amount of teleconference lines, therefore, RSVPs are required.

Staci,

I believe participation in the bidders conference can be via telephone/web correct? I believe we will participate via that method. Unless you'd recommend we attend in person.

In regards to the educational sessions, we have participated in both previous sessions so we will probably not participate in the final one.

Thanks.

Staci,

I believe participation in the bidders conference can be via telephone/web correct? I believe we will participate via that method. Unless you'd recommend we attend in person.

In regards to the educational sessions, we have participated in both previous sessions so we will probably not participate in the final one.

Thanks.

Hi, you are receiving this email because you have previously expressed interest in the State of Alaska's Administrative Systems Replacement Project. Yesterday you received notification of the State's RFP for the project. I have not received an email back from you to register with me as an interested party, and as such, if I don't receive confirmation from you that you want to register as an interested party, I will remove you from the distribution list and you will no longer receive updates. If you wish to register with me and continue to receive updates, please respond to this email by 5:00 pm, Alaska Time tomorrow, Thursday, August 5, 2010.

Staci,

We at Something Simple Inc., would like to register for the Statewide Administrative Systems Replacement Project. We are a software and implementation firm that has been in business for over 25 years. Our consultants have worked on numerous projects for many public sector entities such as City of L.A and City & County of Denver. We welcome the opportunity to potentially work for the State of Alaska. Please send any amendments or updates to this e-mail address or to Letcherm@theeasysoftware.com.

Thankyou again,

Hi Staci –

Thanks for responding so quickly.

We do have Excel 2007, but they after unzipping, they aren't coming up as anything remotely resembling a readable document. In the folder contents, the "type" is listed as an XML document, not Excel.

Below I copied and pasted what the unzipped files look like on our end. Has someone in your office tried to download from the exhibits from website? As I mentioned before, it's only with the exhibit documents and I tried to get them both from the list and from the file folders on the page. The attachments download just fine.

Regarding registering, we'd like to take a look at all the documents first before committing to the onsite meeting in Alaska.

Thanks for any help you can give us,

Ms. Augustus,

MAXIMUS would like to submit a question concerning references. Below is the real-life scenario and the question. Thank you in advance for the information.

For a State implementation customer, MAXIMUS has completed Phase 1, but had not completed Phase 2. Below are the definitions of Phase 1 and Phase 2.

Phase 1: Core Human Resources, Financial and Procurement Functionality has been fully implemented and is in production for all 160 agencies within the State.

Phase 2: Additional functionality for a subset of the 160 agencies is not in production.

Since the core functionality is in production for 160 agencies does this qualify as a reference for the State of Alaska RFP?

Thank you,

Rob

Subject: Reference Question for RFP No. 2010-0200-9388

Ms. Augustus,

MAXIMUS would like to submit a question concerning references. Below is the real-life scenario and the question. Thank you in advance for the information.

For a State implementation customer, MAXIMUS has completed Phase 1, but had not completed Phase 2. Below are the definitions of Phase 1 and Phase 2.

Phase 1: Core Human Resources, Financial and Procurement Functionality has been fully implemented and is in production for all 160 agencies within the State.

Phase 2: Additional functionality for a subset of the 160 agencies is not in production.

Since the core functionality is in production for 160 agencies does this qualify as a reference for the State of Alaska RFP?

Thank you,

Rob

Thank you, I have registered you both for the onsite August 17 meetings. I will need to know who from BidSync will be attending via telephone; we are limited on the number of lines and I'll need to notify each individual separately via email. You can refer to Section 2.02 of the RFP for further details.

Hi Staci – I understand that the RFP was expected to be released yesterday, August 2nd. I hadn't received any notification, nor can I find it on the website. I wanted to make sure I wasn't looking in the wrong place. Could you let me know if the RFP was released yesterday or if there is a delay. Also, is it possible to attend the pre-bid meeting via teleconference for those individuals on my team that are unable to travel to Alaska?

Thank you,

Hello Staci

This e-mail is to RSVP for the Aug 17th best value educational session at 8am as well as the pre-proposal conference at 1pm. Additionally the RFP for the Administrative Systems Replacement Project was scheduled for Aug 2nd and I was wondering how to receive a copy. Will they be available electronically?

Ms. Augustus,

The RFP for the State of Alaska ERP project was supposed to be published on 08/02, but I don't see it on the website. Was it published through another avenue? If not, do you have a date when the RFP will be published and will there be a change in the date for the vendor responses?

Thanks,

Rob
