

PROGRAM 12 – RURAL HUMAN SERVICES SYSTEMS

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

I. PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

The Rural Human Services Systems program offers grants to rural substance abuse, mental health, behavioral health and human services agencies, and to urban agencies serving people who are visiting or have relocated from rural areas. The program was developed in response to the critical need for a stable system of behavioral health providers in rural Alaska and funds the hiring, training, support, and supervision of culturally competent village-based counselors and urban counselors who serve village residents. RHS certificate training is provided through the Rural Human Services Training Program in the University of Alaska College of Rural Alaska from the UA Anchorage, Kuskokwim (Bethel) and the Interior-Aleutians campus in Fairbanks.

Agencies receiving funds through this program are required to document that village-based counselors receive frequent and regular support and supervision and to coordinate this supervision with UAF faculty instructing the curricula. They are also required to send staff designated as supervisors to an annual supervisor training conducted by the University of Alaska Fairbanks faculty and staff. Designated supervisors are also required to coordinate with the University of Alaska to provide academic support to the village-based counselors while they are participating in the RHS training program.

II. PROGRAM PROCEDURES
