The E-Travel Online Dashboard has gone away and in its place is a new User Home Page. The User Home Page allows the user to enter search criteria for air, car, and hotel and provides a link to Travel Preferences.

The User Home Page has three new reference panels specific to the user:

1. My Messages - Provides existing information that is also found under the Alerts dropdown menu regarding notification of:
   - Expiring and expired credit cards
   - Expiring and expired passports
   - Expiring unused tickets when applicable
   If no messages are applicable for the active session, the message “You have no new messages” will display for the user.

2. My Trips - Provides only pending trip information, that is also found within the Trip List. This section contains:
   - Up to three pending trips
   - Trips are displayed in chronological order beginning with the earliest trip departure date
   - The ability to view each trip by clicking on the icon next to it
   - A link to View All, which takes the user to the Trip List that contains trips not listed here (Research, additional Pending, and Archived trips)
   - The status of each trip (Reserved, Purchased, etc.)
   If the user does not have any pending trips, the message “You have no pending trips” will be displayed.

3. My Travel Dashboard - Replaces the Travel Dashboard and remains a great resource for the following information regarding travel:
   - Latest News
   - State Resources
   - Online Training
   - Surveys
   - Travel Tools
   Each section can be minimized to show only the title bars. Users no longer have to click Continue to begin travel arrangements.

The Trip Planning Tabs (also called Super Tabs), previously located at the top right of the screen, have been removed. Super Tabs are viewable by selecting View My Preferences (top of home page) or Start a New Trip (from the Travel dropdown menu).

Special Note of Interest

24-Hour Hold Function

Alaska Airlines was one of the last airlines to discontinue allowing 24-hour hold reservations on their website. Effective September 6, 2010, will be able to save their itineraries by the 24-hour hold option will no longer be available in E-Travel Online. Research and purchase will be the only options for travelers and/or their travel planners.

Travelers, whose department allows them to 24-hour hold,
Travel via Toll Roads

State travel outside of Alaska may require driving on toll roads. Some states, like Colorado, use an express toll system that does not accept cash or credit card payments. The toll fee is deducted from a prepaid electronic device attached to the vehicle.

Vehicles without a prepaid electronic device will have their front and rear license plates photographed by camera surveillance. A statement will be sent to the registered owner. Rental car agencies will change the traveler’s credit card for the toll fee plus an extra administrative fee for each toll charge.

For an additional charge, rental car agencies will provide a daily or weekly prepaid electronic device. The cost is less than paying the extra administrative fees later.

Toll information can be found on individual rental car web sites (hertz.com) under services or products offered. Also, for Colorado, see rental car toll-cost comparison. Be sure to check out road toll information before you go to avoid extra fees.

Tips & Tricks

Modifying a Budget reservation booked with the State contract rate

Car reservations booked using the Budget State contract rate in Anchorage, Fairbanks, or Juneau need to be cancelled and rebooked when changing the dates. Because the off-site location must be manually selected to obtain the State rate, the Modify/Search function is not able to automatically select the contract rate for the new date. The original reservation must be cancelled and rebooked when adding additional days to the current booking.

Unused ticket information in E-Travel Online

Unused ticket alerts will display under the main tool bar on the left-hand side. Click on the alert to see the airline, expiration date, and ticket value.

Notification of an available unused ticket and the value also displays in air availability, saved research, and trip itineraries not submitted for purchase.

To use an unused ticket, book the itinerary and enter the unused ticket information (airline, expiration date, and value) in the Special Instruction box that appears at time of purchase.
